

Loudoun Hospital Center

River Creek resident Ginny Gravalles gave high marks to the Loudoun Hospital Center when she took her husband, Al, to the emergency ward for a complaint of a persistent cough.

Fearful that he may have had pneumonia, she said, "We were very impressed with the ER at Lansdowne. They were extremely efficient and even nice. As we were leaving, there was a helicopter either delivering or removing someone. What a great sense of security it is to live so close to good medical care."

She also said they even did a test for influenza. "We didn't know they could do that!"

After a series of tests, Al was diagnosed with bronchitis.
